HEDGES FOR FRUIT FARMS

Fruit farms often need extensive hedgerows between fields to act as windbreaks to protect the crops. However, it is important that any varieties included in the hedgerows do not attract insects detrimental to the valuable crops or other wildlife that may cause damage. Below is a suitable hedge mix which will create an attractive and effective hedge without attracting the above-mentioned creatures.

Carpinus betulus
Acer Campestre
Corylus Avelana
Ligustrum Ovalifolium

Plant at 5 plants per M in a double staggered row. Available in a large variety of sizes.
